

Having a good flow of air through your home can help to prevent diseases that are spread by coughing and sneezing. Open windows to let fresh air in.

